Update - The 2009 Wellington Wedding Show

2009 will be an interesting year for the wedding show market so to avoid disappointment all existing exhibitors have till the 5th of November 2008 to send back their registration forms. Go to www.thewellingtonweddingshow.co.nz and download a copy of the registration form if you need one. All existing exhibitors from 2008 have first right of refusal to their stand. As there has been a flood of new exhibitors register and pay their deposits, plans are moving forward to place new exhibitors at Chaffers Dock Atrium - entrance via either Zarbos or Subway making The Wellington Wedding Show even bigger and stronger than the previous years.

Update - The Wellington Wedding Show booklet

We have sold all the advertising pages and have now added 4 more pages allowing 8 more advertisers the opportunity to advertise, so if you are interested please email: info@thewellingtonweddingshow.co.nz. Don't forget all exhibitors get a free listing in the book with your business name, contact, phone, email and web address.

The Newest Trend in the Wedding Market - Welcome to The Wedding School

The Wedding School... a great day out for brides and their co planners receiving the guidance they need to successfully plan a beautiful wedding. Hosted by belle vie co-founder and creative director Paula Bevege, the day-long seminar will lead you through the steps of the planning process.

Before class begins, you'll be given a special Wedding School pack, which will include a step-by-step guide on how to plan your wedding after you graduate.

Over the course of the day, you'll learn the essential basics to getting started, important and fundamental tips including key questions to ask when hunting for service providers, how to deal with certain etiquette issues such as interesting family dynamics and invaluable hints on event styling and coordination. In between classes, you'll enjoy gorgeous food and wine to keep you going throughout the afternoon. After your sessions, you'll break out into groups to share thoughts and ideas with your fellow students. This fun day at school will no doubt set you at ease as well as put you on the right track to creating an organised, stress-free and gorgeous wedding day. Everything is included in the ticket price of $120 so go ahead and visit www.bellevie.co.nz and find out more.
